

Seminar on customs operations: practical experience at the investment goods customs sub-department, ho chi minh city

On october 17, 2023, the faculty of taxation and customs successfully organized a specialized seminar titled “customs operations: practical experience at the investment goods customs sub-department.” During the seminar, students had the valuable opportunity to learn from and directly engage with the guest speaker, M.A. Phạm Đức Cường – an officer at the Investment Goods Customs Sub-department in Ho Chi Minh City.

The seminar provided students with essential insights into the field of customs and import-export. More importantly, it offered a broader perspective that helped narrow the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical experience.

We would like to extend our sincere thanks to the dedicated faculty members of the faculty of taxation and customs, as well as our honored guest speaker, for generously sharing their time and expertise with us.

Last but not least, we are especially grateful to all the students whose presence and enthusiasm contributed to the vibrant and dynamic atmosphere of the seminar.
